

Community Boost Sermonette Interests Ogden Rotarians

The following sermonette on the community boost spirit was read at the Rotary club meeting today in connection with the club's drive to obtain increased support and membership for the Ogden Chamber of Commerce.

Make your town a good town to go back to as well as to come from. You can only do it by joining the Chamber of Commerce and working for the good of your town along the lines of a well thought out program. No town should go backward; there is only one way for a town to go and that is forward. Advise your city, help it put its best foot forward. Dwell on its advantages and not on its disadvantages. The former is for the public and the latter for yourself only.

As Henry Van Dyke says, "Trim your lamp so that it will give more light and less smoke, and carry it in front of you so that your shadow will fall behind you."

And always wake up in the morning glad that you live in your town, proud of it, tickled to death that you can call it your home, where you live, where your kids go and where the sun always shines and the clouds never gather.

Talk your town, dream your town and breathe your town. Be a booster and not a boaster. Join your Chamber of Commerce, put the "am" in Chamber and the "me" in Commerce and always recall that if your town seems to be a back number—"It isn't Your town; it's You."

If you want to live in the kind of town
Like the kind of town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long, hike,
You'll only find what you've left behind.

For there's nothing that's really new,
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town—
It isn't the town, it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid
Least somebody else gets ahead,
When every one works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead
And if, while you make your personal stake,

Your neighbors can make one, too,
Your town will be what you want to see—
It isn't the town, it's you.

SUMS UP WORLD OIL SITUATION

America Must Open Its Eyes
to Unpromising Situation,
Teagle Declares

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The American Petroleum industry must look in the future to foreign countries for its raw material, and cannot "close its eyes to a portent of obsolescence that looms in its way," due to the attitude of foreign governments, President Walter C. Teagle, of the Standard Oil company, of New Jersey, told the American Petroleum institute here today.

"Certain governments, their realization of the importance of petroleum quickened by the war, are not only endeavoring to enter the oil business themselves, but also directly to engross the sources of supply and reserve the development of such sources to their own citizens, companies and capital," Mr. Teagle said. The speaker classed these efforts as tending to the establishment of a system which will be unjust, injurious and unwise. He mentioned England, France, Japan, and Mexico in connection with his presentation of the situation.

PRODUCTION PROBLEM.
Essentially, Mr. Teagle said, the American industry has to face the problem of production. During the present year, he estimated, the United States will consume 445,000,000 barrels of crude oil produced within the nation and import 120,000,000 barrels additional from Mexico.

"These figures must be little, but the tendency is all important," Mr. Teagle said. "It emphasizes the relatively small part our home production is going to play in the future."

"Our British friends, in endeavoring to explain the position their government has taken since the armistice, have argued that since the United States is now producing 70 per cent of the world's current production, we should be well content with things as they are. This is an entirely fallacious view. It is reasonable to ask the Americans go headlessly on to the quick exhaustion of their own supply and then retire from the oil business." The American petroleum industry cannot accept such a conclusion. It must look to the development of petroleum outside the United States.

INTERNATIONAL POLITICS.
What we are now obliged to consider is the fact that by the policy of government control and restriction, the oil industry has been injected into international politics, where, as occasional revolutions during the past year compel us to believe, the rule of open covenants, openly arrived at, has failed into a state of deplorable neglect. Russia, Mr. Teagle said, had "gone wholeheartedly into the oil business," and fields which produced 69,000,000 barrels under private management in 1915, produced 34,000,000 in 1919. Neither "special privilege nor direct government management has given or will give the people of the world the production desired," he added.

As examples of "foreign governments deliberately placing obstacles in the way of those who would like to assist in the development of new sources of supply," Mr. Teagle cited the San Remo agreement, "proposing a division of Mesopotamia and other Near East territory between the British and the French," and the "tripartite" agreement recently into between Britain, France and Italy, defining spheres of influence in Turkey, "which is susceptible of diplomatic inquiry as to its true meaning."

SITUATION IN PERSIA.
"You know that Persia is almost entirely limited to the development work of an English company," he continued. "That a Dutch company enjoys almost complete monopoly in the Dutch East Indies, that Japan restricts development of petroleum properties to her citizens; while the French provide for complete nationalization of all mineral resources."

"The petroleum question constitutes one of the most acute factors in the Mexican problem, a conference on that program has as yet failed of more than partial success."

Pointing out that the United States has never limited aliens in exploiting oil resources within its territory or reserved sub-soil rights in privately owned land, Mr. Teagle said it "might be argued as a matter of necessary self-protection to consider the adoption of measures reciprocally to conserve its petroleum resources for its own people and stop the supply of present petroleum products to other nations."

"It is to be hoped that the United States never will be forced to such steps," he concluded. "We do not believe it will be necessary. The world is too anxious for petroleum. This it can obtain only if there be maintained everywhere a free and fair field to all, with special government favor to none."

MINERS ATTACK ENGLISH PATENT

Delegates at Denver Say Flotation Monopoly Hurts Development

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 17.—Criticism of the alleged attitude of Miners Separation corporation which was said to own and control patents covering in flotation process of ore separation, was voiced by George L. Nye, Denver attorney, in an address today before a flotation conference at the twenty-third annual convention of the American Mining congress here.

Most of the morning session of this conference was devoted to a discussion of litigation by which it was said millions of dollars of unpaid royalties to the Mineral Separation company are retained.

RETARDS DEVELOPMENT.
W. C. Russell, Denver mining engineer, asserted the comment of prominent technical journals and opinions of eminent engineers was unambiguous in its address. "Has the attitude of Miners Separation retarded the development of flotation concentration," he asked.

Gossip among the delegates today was that Huley Wells, president of the American Mining congress for the past two years, would decline re-election at the annual meeting tomorrow.

It was said Harry L. Day, Idaho, now first vice president, also would decline to become head of the organization.

GOLD PRODUCER CANDIDATE.
According to current rumor, the presidency will go to W. J. Loring, San Francisco, a gold producer with mines in California, Alaska, Nevada and Arizona.

Mr. Loring today was chosen chairman of the resolutions committee which began deliberations this morning.

Discussion of measures for relief of producers of war minerals was before another conference today.

The case arose from an alleged fight. Recommendations for dismissal were made on grounds that Jones did not want to appear against Roberts. The motion was granted.

Judge Roberts said, however, that action should be started against Jones for failure to press his case, after he had taken the court's time in entering a complaint.

Pair Held; Illegal Marriage Charged

Upon a complaint signed by Thomas Hayes, Jack Hassell and Louise Hayes were arrested yesterday by members of the sheriff's department on a charge of illegal marriage.

Hayes, former husband of Louise Hayes, alleges that his former wife married Hassell at Evanston two days before a decree granting her a divorce had been signed.

The couple will be arraigned in the city court some time during the coming week, it is said. The delay is caused through absence of Hassell's attorney from the city.

Hayes caused the arrest of his wife and Hassell several months ago on a charge of bigamy.

Hayes' action in reporting the illegal marriage of Hassell and Louise Hayes is alleged to have been brought about by refusal of the defendants to allow him to visit his infant son.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.
